

MOTIVATIONAL AND CROSS CULTURAL TALKS

By Edu-Tainer – David Hudson

Cultural appreciation and reconciliation

David Hudson is recognised as a leading Indigenous identity in Australia today. He has toured the world on many occasions and is widely known as an accomplished entertainer, musician and didgeridoo player. He considers himself an edu-tainer.

David has proven himself to be a motivational and inspirational speaker. He has the ability to talk to many and varied groups about his background, culture and his experiences on his travels around Australia and overseas. He has the unique ability to inspire those who hear him speak and is able to change his format to suit the theme and mood of the audience.

He also has the ability to bring cultural reconciliation into his talks without the audience even realising it. David brings to his listeners a positive aspect of Indigenous and culturally diverse peoples and what they can achieve and how that translates to mainstream. He provides inspiration- and explores incentive to achieve goals and more importantly what motivates him to succeed.

How do you deal with cultural obstacles?

This is a topic for both Indigenous and culturally diverse audiences. David draws continual inspiration from his own cultural diversity and the many and varied characters he has encountered while travelling, enabling him to deliver to his audience a humorous and enlightening delivery. His communication crosses all cultural barriers and projects a global message. He also brings into this presentation – his music. A glimpse of didgeridoo and guitar gives special meaning to this presentation.

David is able to provide his own laptop and projector for projecting images during his speech and performance.
